

DOINGS OF THE WEEK IN SOCIETY OF ARIZONA'S CAPITAL

SOCIETY FEELS THE EFFECT OF INFLUENZA BAN

A ban having been placed on public gatherings, society has been forced to cancel many of its engagements—postponing many events, too, scheduled for the near future, to some indefinite period. The holiday season, after many months of quiet, seemed even more gay than the Christmas and New Year's week before the war, so that the deadly dullness of the past week was the more marked. A few informal teas and an occasional dinner were all that relieved the monotony, which gives promise of continuing for some time to come. The outlook for this week is barren but no doubt a few small events will take place before the seven days have passed.

A Small Bottle of "Danderine" Makes Hair Thick, Glossy and Wavy

Removes All Dandruff, Stops Itching Scalp and Falling Hair

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair, soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is more than a matter of using a little Danderine. It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Danderine and use it—just as the directions say—and you will find that it really does what it promises. It removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once. If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. With The Women Of Today
By Edith Moriarty

Two women are shown here, working on baskets and hammocks

No longer can the pessimistic scribes write scornful and vindictive articles about the indolent, extravagant and useless society women. For years it has been quite the thing to play up the silly fads of the so-called "idle rich class." But that time has passed. The idle rich have been just about the busiest they could possibly be since the outbreak of the war. For the very reason that they had more time and money than most folk, they have been able to accomplish more than the ordinary person in the matter of doing war work.

The women started out by taking courses in first aid from the Red Cross. They went daily until they were skilled in the art of first aid common sense, and they paid for the privilege of learning. They spent outside time learning to knit and sew for the soldiers, as well as for refugees of allied countries. They spent every ounce of energy they had putting loans and charity drives over the top. They went to domestic science lectures and classes and learned how to economize at their own tables and how to teach others to do the same. The talented ones gave their services to soldiers' entertainments.

Now the real test comes, however. The war is over, but the work of the women is far from over. But from all indications, the society women at least see what is yet to be done and they have already started another class.

This time the women are learning the art of weaving in order to qualify as teachers of wounded boys returning from overseas. The course of instruction is being given under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. The photograph shows two New York society women learning how to weave baskets and hammocks. The method of making brushes is also one of the trades taught. This work may not have the thrill and romance of the course in nursing or motor driving, but it is far more practical.

Barnard Woman Goes Overseas
Miss Virginia Newcomb, the assistant dean of Barnard college, is on the way to France, having leave of absence from the college to serve as secretary for the Y. W. C. A. in overseas work. She is the leader of the party of sixteen on board the Chicago.

lay, it is a certainty that there is likely to be a shortage of cars for the motor buyers. "Buy early" is then a slogan that puts a certainty into the purchase and insures getting a car for use in 1919.

"Moreover, the way in which motorists are using their cars, 12 months in the year, makes it advisable for every owner to get full benefit of his car. The earlier it is purchased, the longer the season for him and consequently the longer he is on a level, from a standpoint of transportation facilities, with his motorized neighbor.

"I realize perfectly that early buying has long been a slogan of many dealers and the public may be inclined to view it as a 'wolf story,' but this year, above all others, it is true. The early buyers are going to have a distinct advantage on the ones who delay and it will be an advantage that will be more keenly felt as the spring season comes on and motoring becomes a pastime in addition to a business proposition."

ANTI-FREEZE SALTS
When salt solutions are used for anti-freeze purposes, great care must be taken to see that all leaks are stopped. If there happens to be a leak and the fan draft throws the liquid onto the engine some of it will undoubtedly be deposited on the ignition cables and terminals. After the water evaporates the salt remains to cause trouble in the ignition system.
